

shoosmiths

“ I think one of the best things about working at Shoosmiths is working with other people because we work very well together. It is a very friendly place to work.

What does the future hold?

The market for private client is changing. There have been a lot of developments recently which have meant that other players are coming in to the market but because we deal with a very specific area it gives us greater opportunity and I certainly see the department growing in the future.

About the team working

Shoosmiths is a very exciting place to work and I think the private client team is part of that. It's a very friendly team. We do a lot of different things and therefore there is a great variety which keeps you interested.

What attracted me to Shoosmiths

I think the thing that attracted me to private client work is the relationships that you build up with your clients. I have clients that I have known for years and years and they look upon me as a friend as much as anything. ”

Trevor George Head of private client

better value | best answers | less hassle